MARION AREA TRAGEDY

2 Union Parish Deputies, Killer Die In Gun Play

By JIMMY HATTEN
State Editor

FARMERVILLE — A middle-aged backwoods bachelor Friday shot to death two unarmed veteran Union Parish deputy sheriffs before being gunned down himself by a rookie deputy who had brought along his revolver as an afterthought.

The three lawmen had gone to the one-room shanty inhabited by Heard Nolan, 55, six miles southeast of Marion to question Nolan about the theft of six pounds of butter and six onions from the Linville High School. Marion is located about 16 miles north of here.

The deputies slain by Nolan were Chief Deputy George Miller Edwards, 77, and Aylmer G. Taylor, 43.

LEAVE OFFICE

Asst. Dist. Atty. James T. Spencer said that as the three deputies left the sheriff's office here to go to Nolan's house to question him, Glen Barron, 30, the newcomer to the sheriff's staff had already started for the car and, turning, said, "I guess I better take my gun along."

Spencer said the three deputies, carrying a search warrant, were greeted at the door by Nolan, who was told why they were there.

"Nolan told them the only way they'd search his house was if he was dead and in hell," Spencer said.

"As he said that, he pulled out one of these little outlaw .22-caliber pistols."

Spencer continued that Edwards, who had served as Union Parish sheriff for 10 years and has been associated with the sheriff's department as a deputy since 1928 had both arms raised, with his hands resting on the door facings, peering into the room, and then, "The first shot went right through George's heart."

Edwards clutched his chest. "You boys better take him," he shouted.

"Deputy Taylor," Spencer said, "wheeled to get him and Nolan got him (Taylor). Deputy Barron dropped to his knees and fired three times" and fatally wounded Nolan in the head, Spencer said.

Spencer said that Nolan lived for a while after being shot, but that "he never regained consciousness, and did not make any statement at all."

A coroner's jury was convened by acting coroner Dr. J. B. Booth where the three bodies lay in the yard. It consisted of Thad Kennedy, Ollie Newsom, Dick Miller, Joe Miller and Sid Patrick.

The jury found that the two deputies were slain by Nolan and that Nolan was justifiably killed by Barron, acting in the line of duty.

The shooting occurred at mid-morning.

Taylor had served as a deputy for four years under Jurd Stewart, who has been succeeded by Dennis Long. Edwards had been retained by the sheriff's department to aid in training new deputies.

"Two good men dead because of a sack of onions and six pounds of butter," commented one man at the sheriff's office here as the shooting was discussed.

Dr. Booth conducted autopsies at the scene of the shooting.

He said that Edwards was shot in the doorway, Taylor in the yard.

Edwards had dealings with Nolan in his previous tenure as a lawman, deputies said, "but who would have thought he (Nolan) would do a thing like this."

Fingerprints had been found at the scene of the Thursday night burglary at the Linville High School, and the deputies had contacted Carl Miller, a Farmerville lawman, to relay a message that they needed fingerprinting materials.

Gov. McKeithen Declares Worth

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen has declared his net worth is $297,365, records of the Secretary of State showed Friday.

McKeithen filed a statement with Secretary of State Wade O. Martin before the deadline Thursday.

State law requires such a statement to be filed by governors within 30 days after they enter and leave office.

Reds Drive Laos Forces Out Of Post

Phouma Permits U.S. Jet Flights To Resume Sorties

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Pro-Communist troops drove neutralist defenders from a vital defense post west of the Plaine des Jarres Friday and neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma announced that U.S. Navy jet reconnaissance planes were resuming operations.

Souvanna said the flights showed "important" troop movements by Communist Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese (Viet Minh) troops and disclosed that U.S. Navy planes had photographic proof for the first time of the Communist North Vietnamese troops in Laos.

BATTLE LOOMS

Right-wing Gen. Amkha Souk-havong reported the Communist troops had driven neutralists from Phou Kout, a hill position commanding the important east-west highway 7 and that the attackers were only 11 miles from the neutralist stronghold of Munong Soui.

He said neutralist reinforcements have been moved up to Muong Soui, 110 miles north of Vientiane, and that a major battle appears to be in the making. A Communist victory at Muong Soui would wipe out the last main neutralist forces and open the way to Vientiane itself.

Souvanna had charged in the past the Communist North Vietnamese were supporting the Pathet Lao in open violation of the Geneva agreements on Laos. But the 1,000-mile-per-hour RFS Crusaders photographed them in action.

He said the planes would resume operation in a few days, but diplomatic sources said there probably was a flight Friday because of Souvanna's reports of "important" troop buildups.

Latest Of Type

Two new four-wheel drive mail delivery vehicles have been added to the West Monroe post office fleet.

Postmaster Homer Roark was showing them off Friday.

The latest of their type, the trucks replace 1956 models. They feature controls on the right side of the cab to permit easy filling of rural boxes without leaving the wheel. Much glass is used throughout to permit maximum visibility.

Gov. Scranton Makes Entry For GOP Nod

Carrying Banner For Progressives, Late-Comer Says

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton charged into the race for the Republican presidential nomination Friday, labeling the ideas of front-running Sen. Barry Goldwater a "weird parody" of traditional GOP principles.

To the chants and cheers of his partisans—and the jeers of Goldwater supporters — Scranton vowed a crusade for progressive Republicanism.

"I'm going to go every place that will have me and tell them why I think we should have progressive Republicanism and why I want to be the candidate," the 46-year-old former congressman declared.

32 DAYS LEFT

Scranton—with no campaign manager, no itinerary and 32 days to go in the race for the nomination—conceded it will be an uphill fight.

But he said Goldwater hasn't won the nomination yet—despite his towering lead in delegate strength.

"I don't think they have it anywhere near in the bag," he declared.

The gray-haired governor, his wife at his side, declared his candidacy before more than 400 people at the Maryland Republican convention in a steaming hotel ballroom.

His four-page declaration was packed with tough talk about the Goldwater brand of conservatism. Scranton didn't mention the Arizona senator by name, but he left no doubt of his target.

His fans burst into applause two dozen times as Scranton delivered his declaration—loudest when he said: "I came here to announce I am a candidate for the presidency of the United States."

But there was an undertone of jeers, and chants of, "We want Goldwater," too.

"A stand must be made, but the hour is late," he declared. "The Republican party is in danger. And some say our country may be, too."

Scranton said the party needs a presidential nominee who can bolster its other candidates—not "doom them to undeserved defeat."

Hoffa Seeking Trial Recess

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal Judge Richard B. Austin said Friday he would try to grant Teamster President James R. Hoffa's request to be excused from sessions of his $25 million fraud trial in order to handle pressing union business.

Hoffa said he has asked to be absent from some sessions during the next few weeks to preside at contract negotiations which "involved 200,000 persons."

"About 200,000 people have been holding off because of this trial," Hoffa said. "They can't hold off much longer because contracts have already run out or about to run out, and we want retroactive pay."

Area Showers Possible Today

The forecast for the Twin Cities and area calls for more 90 degree and above heat and possibilities of widely scattered afternoon thundershowers.

Highest today is expected to be 90-96 with early morning lows of 70-76. The mercury leveled off Friday at 95 degrees after dropping to warm low of 74. Shower activity over most of the mid-South and middle west may reach into the area but rainfall is forecast to be isolated only.

Winds will be southerly 5-15 miles per hour.

Explosion Series Kills 8, Hurts 110

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A fiery chain of ammunition explosions at a suburban military barracks killed nine persons and injured 110 others Friday night and early today. A government source said three suspects admitted taking part in a sabotage plot.

One suspect told authorities the explosions were set off by civilians who infiltrated the barracks wearing military uniforms.

INQUIRY BOARD

A military board of inquiry is investigating.

The source said one of the confessed suspects, when arrested, had in his possession a rifle belonging to a sentry guarding the arsenal at the military camp where the explosions occurred.

One suspect indicated that at least one of the saboteurs took refuge in the University of Santo Domingo, the source said.

Police unexpectedly withdrew their forces from the university campus, without announcing whether they made any arrests there. The government suspended the university's autonomous status to enable police to search the campus earlier Friday.

Police also disclosed an attempt to blow up a French liner at dockside.

Donald Reid Cabral, head of the ruling three-man civilian junta, made a radio-television address to the people of this restive Caribbean island republic.

He said an investigation disclosed that the blasts were set off deliberately by unknown persons, and that the investigation is continuing.

He told the nation that most of the victims were military and firefighting personnel.

As he spoke, police reported they had arrested two port workers in the act of placing a home-made bomb in the French liner Flandre docked in Santo Domingo port. The bomb did not explode. The two were identified as Javier Rodriguez and Gustavo Valdez Santana.

The blasts and fire left the city looking as though it had been hit by an earthquake.

"Those responsible will have to answer to a judge for the worst possible crime — taking

Soviets Agree To U.N. Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union was reported Friday to have agreed to charter revisions that would enlarge the U.N. Security and Economic and Social Councils for the first time since the United Nations was established in 1945.

The proposed amendments were approved by the General Assembly last fall, over Soviet objections, and circulated to the 112 member nations for ratification.

LBJ Writes Warm Letter To De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson is sending Charles de Gaulle a very cordial letter as a follow-up to the recent Paris conversations between Undersecretary of State George Ball and the French president, administration officials said Friday.

Ball, who met with De Gaulle a week ago and then went on to Geneva and the Middle East, reported Friday morning to the Chief Executive on the results of his trip.

Ball told newsmen there was a "wide area of agreement" between France and the United States on long range objectives in Southeast Asia although they differ considerably on short-range objective tactics.

In the letter to De Gaulle, which they described as "very warm," did not undertake to expand the discussions.

The letter, however, underlined Johnson's determination to seek the most cordial possible relations with De Gaulle. It was described as another example of the President's feeling that it is time for the United States to stop talking about its problems with De Gaulle and start trying to preserve Washington's oldest overseas alliance.

Ball said his talk with De Gaulle disclosed "agreement in our general analysis of the problems" in Southeast Asia, including the fact that "they result from aggressive Chinese efforts" directed from North Vietnam.

But there was "some difference on the exact means" by which the Franco-American objectives of peace and stability in the area could be achieved, Ball said.

Earlier, a spokesman said U. S. reconnaissance flights have turned up photographic proof that the Communists were lying when they denied the presence of North Vietnamese troops in Laos.

East Germany, Soviets Sign 20-Year Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and Communist East Germany signed a 20-year friendship treaty Friday, but stopped short of sparking new international crisis over Germany and Berlin.

Cautiously, Soviet Premier Khrushchev characterized the pact as contributing to "peaceful regulation of the German question." He warned that the issue can "absolutely unexpectedly provoke a catastrophe."

The treaty specifically said Soviet obligations under the Potsdam agreement with the West, signed after World War II, would not be affected. This treaty concerned U.S., Soviet, British and French control in Germany and the statement presumably means Western access rights to Berlin remain as they are.

'ROARING BAD TIME'

Lions For Neighbors Make Cleo Nervous

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Cleo got a new home Friday and she was a little nervous about the neighbors. They are lions.

Cleo is a lion, too, but she had never seen another lion until she moved into the Jacksonville Zoo.

All of Cleo's friends have been human, mostly children and scientists at the University of Florida.

"She is a wonderful lion," said Robert Rhoades, university medical student.

"We did countless tests on her - heart, X-rays, blood samples - and she never growled at all. She just would wait quietly for someone to pet her when they were over."

But Cleo has grown too strong to play with her favorite friends the young sons of anatomy Prof. Joseph Gennaro. They watched dolefully as Cleo was placed in her new home.

Cleo circled it a few times, discovered the boys outside, and sat down to stare back. It was hard to tell who was sadder.

Vote Spurs Hottest Talk Of Debates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate turned down 37-22 Friday a proposal by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., to submit the civil rights bill to a popular vote in the November national elections.

The vote capped the hottest argument of the cloture-bound debate which pitted Russell and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois against one another with rising voices and arm-waving. Each used up about one-third of the hour allotted to each senator for talk about all amendments and the bill itself.

DRAMATIC EPISODE

It was one of the most dramatic episodes of the 77-day-old civil rights debate. It came as an interlude in the Senate's continued rejection in rapid-fire order of a succession of amendments offered by the Southern foes of the bill, headed by Russell.

Among the other proposals rejected was one by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., aimed at Freedom Riders — by making it a federal crime to cross a state line for the purpose of violating a state law. This was beaten 72-21.

In all 11 proposals were rejected by large margins before the Senate recessed at 7:05 p.m. until 10 a.m. today. Only two minor changes were approved by voice vote with the leadership's blessing.

Russell, in seeking to submit the civil rights bill to a referendum in the Nov. 3 general election, declared: "Let the voice of the American people be heard on this issue."

But Dirksen—who has played a key role in pushing toward passage the compromise bill fashioned by himself, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and other leaders—said this would be cowardly of Congress.

Russell argued that this is "the most far-reaching bill ever presented to the Congress" and, "this violent change in our way of government should not take effect until approved by the people."

But Dirksen told his colleagues, "If you want to destroy all hope for the civil rights bill, then vote for this amendment."

His voice dripping with sarcasm, Dirksen said, "I thought I came here as a legislator and not to depend on a national referendum to determine what I should do."

"The people sent us here to exercise some judgment," the Republican leader thundered.

Saying the House members had stood up and been counted—passing the bill 290 to 130 in February — Dirksen demanded to know if senators were going "to take refuge, stick in an escape hatch, and send it back to the people."

"No, Mr. President, I am not going to make that confession," Dirksen declared after throwing in a Shakespeare quotation that cowards die many deaths but the valiant die only once.

Russell, rising again, demanded to know: "Who are those who are cowards—those willing to let the people pass on this or those who bask in the spotlight and who refuse to let the people speak?"

Dirksen said Russell's amendment would "gut this bill."

Russell replied that if it is true, as Dirksen said, that his referendum amendment would kill the bill then it means Dirksen is cramming the bill "down the throats of the people when they don't want it."

I'm a 74-year-old woman. I was divorced from my husband 32 years ago after 21 years of marriage. My former husband has remarried but I never did. My question is this — can I collect any part of his Social Security benefits on his death?

According to the local office of the Social Security department, the answer to this question is no. When you were divorced from your husband that killed any chance of your drawing monthly Social Security benefits on his record.

Can you explain the difference between the old and new dollar bills. Some people won't accept the new one.

The old bill is a silver certificate backed by $1 in silver. The new bill is backed only by the credit of the federal government. There is no reason for a person not to accept the new bill. It is legal U. S. tender.

Where is the nearest office of the U. S. Labor Department located?

There will be an office in Monroe next week, we learned by a little detective work. There is no office near here at the present time. Next week, go by the Ouachita Bank Building, room 803, and check for any information you might need on employment practices.

Why is it that the working class of people are the only ones picked up for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages?

This is not the case, actually. People from all walks of life have been arrested and fined in local courts on this charge. It is not something limited strictly to any one segment of the population.

On what days of the week did Sept. 11, 1930, and Dec. 30, 1935, fall?

Sept. 11, 1930, was on Thursday and Dec. 30, 1935, was on Monday.

In regard to the new budget and enforcing regulation adopted by the Monroe City Council what would happen if the police or fire department overspent their budget allotment? Would they also close down?

Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said that this resolution was designed to do away with unnecessary expenditures by city departments. Figures for the new budget were based on last year's amounts, he explained. A provision was made for any department to appear before an open meeting of the City Council if it seems necessary for them to exceed their budget.

If an emergency arose calling for extra money, the department head would be able to take the matter up with the council, which would determine whether or not he got the funds.

The resolution is not concerned with justifiable expenses, the mayor said. He added that the police and fire departments do not usually go over their budgets.

When is construction due to start on the new city hall?

Contracts for the city hall and civic center auditorium are scheduled to be let in September or October, according to Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard. Preliminary plans have already been approved by the City Council, and the officials are awaiting the final plans from the architects, the mayor explained.

Once the final plans are accepted, the city will advertise for bids, then let the contracts. Construction will get under way as soon as the contracts are let. The project will be started by the end of the year at the latest, Howard said. Completion date is set for 1966.

Why has a public hearing been called on the street improvement program in Monroe?

The law requires that the property owners affected by the street improvements have an opportunity to express their views, according to Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez. Since the funds for a great deal of the construction work is obtained by assessing the abutting property owners, Rodriguez explained, the requirement states that the City Council must advise the intended projects and announce a date for property owners to voice their objections, if any, to the improvements.

This is a routine gesture for most of the projects, the commissioner continued, since the great majority of the property owners are in favor of the improvements and do not come to the meeting.

The hearings for the 1964 street improvement program has been set for 10 a.m. Thursday in the mayor's office.

If a husband and wife buy furniture and property, can he sell it without her signature on the bill of sale? If she buys something, can he sell it without her permission?

Dist. Atty. Albin P. Lassiter said that more details would be necessary for the question to be answered accurately since a seemingly insignificant point might change the ruling on the case. He advised consulting an attorney.

Is it necessary for a lawyer to be present at the signing of a will if all the witnesses have been approved.

The office of this district attorney advises that this question involves several legal aspects, each of which could possibly result in a different answer. For any advice or consultation concerning wills and other legal documents, you should secure the services of an attorney.

Goldwater Greets Scranton's Entry With Big Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Friday he welcomes Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's belated bid for the republican presidential nomination—a prize that's all but in Goldwater's grasp.

Republican opponents of Goldwater also welcomed the Scranton move but none ventured any prediction of success.

Even before Scranton's announcement speech in Baltimore, Goldwater's office issued a statement saying the Arizona conservative agrees with the governor's thesis that "the delegates should have a choice" at the convention beginning July 13 in San Francisco.

Goldwater didn't point it out, but delegates' freedom to choose already has been heavily circumscribed by himself and others.

The latest Associated Press poll shows Goldwater with 543 delegates—against 655 needed to nominate. The senator's backers insist that selections this week and next will assure him more than 600 votes by convention time and bring him the nomination on the first or second ballot.

Scranton has 86 delegates, 205 are committed to other announced and unannounced candidates while 94 are listed for favorite sons and 205 are uncommitted. Remaining to be selected are 174.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "I welcome the entry of Gov. Scranton, whom I have long admired."

But the statement issued from Eisenhower's Gettysburg office was largely a reiteration of his belief that "free, fair and active competition among party personalities is not divisive" and it carried no hint of endorsement for any candidate.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the only candidate who has thus far been waging an all-out fight against Goldwater's nomination, said in a statement, "I am glad to see Gov. Scranton's announcement that he is joining the battle to give our party a choice."

Rockefeller, runner up to Goldwater with 130 delegates, added that, "There must be others who will also join in the responsibility of leadership."

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam and a leading unannounced candidate with 46 pledged votes, had nothing to say but his principal supporter came out strongly for Scranton—in obvious concession that there's no hope for Lodge's nomination.

Robert Mullen, national coordinator for the Committee to Draft Lodge, said he will contact leaders of that organization in 45 states and urge them to throw their support to Scranton at the convention. He added, "I'm personally all for it."

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, an announced candidate and holder of 14 delegates, declined comment pending an opportunity to study Scranton's declaration. But before he spoke she told newsmen, "I'm not taking him seriously because he's been so uncertain in his intentions."

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican senator and a Smith backer, said, "He — Scranton — may have a chance, but Sen. Margaret Chase Smith is better qualified for the job."

Richard M. Nixon former vice president and 1960 GOP nominee, said Scranton's entry into the race is "a healthy situation" but he declined to take sides.

"My role," he told reporters at London Airport, "will be one of neutrality."

"I will not endorse Scranton or anyone else before the convention," he added.

Nixon is not an announced candidate and has only 14 delegates but Goldwater has described him as the chief threat to a Goldwater win.

Rpe. William E. Miller of New York, the Republican national chairman, showed chair-like noncommitment in a statement saying: "My admiration for Gov. Scranton has been a matter of record for a long time. Any leading Republican such as Gov. Scranton has every right to have his name considered by the delegates."

Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, a long-time Goldwater backer, said Scranton "would have had some reasonable hope of success if he had declared himself up to one month ago."

Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, who directed Rockefeller's losing fight in the California primary, joined in welcoming the Scranton entry and said: "The hour is very late, but there is a little time remaining. Scranton can yet help to prevent the holocaust."

Busy Day Set For Gov. Wallace At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A busy day is lined up here next Wednesday for Alabama Gov. George Wallace, the states rights champion who says he will campaign for president in 12 states.

He will address a joint session of the Louisiana Legislature at noon that day, by previous invitation, and speak at a $25-a-plate fund raising banquet that night.

The Alabama governor's name will appear on the November presidential election ballot in Louisiana with an pledged elector slate, authorized by the Democratic State Central Committee.

The same committee has pledged 10 other electors to the national Democratic nominee under its traditional rooster emblem.

Wallace will arrive at Ryan Airport at 10 a.m.

At 11 a.m. he will ride in a parade from the old governor's mansion on North Boulevard to the State Capitol, where he will address a joint session of the legislature at noon.

Wallace will hold a news conference at the Parliament House Lakeshore Motor Hotel Wednesday afternoon at a time to be announced.

A fund-raising dinner will be held at the Jack Tar Capitol House at 7 p.m.

Viet Nam Rewards Net 27 Defectors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A government campaign to win over Communist Viet Cong guerrillas with offers of rewards has netted 27 defectors in the past month, U.S. military spokesmen reported Friday.

The guerrillas are promised rewards for weapons they hand in.

The reward offers are contained in leaflets dropped by plane on known Viet Cong areas.

American Brains, Spirit

In an address to a civic club here this week, the guest speaker, Dr. F. Jay Taylor, president of Louisiana Tech, pointed to an alarming scholastic tendency to "give way to normality, to have the average become desirable and to glorify mediocrity while ridiculing distinction."

Of course, Dr. Taylor was speaking in generalities. He hastened to point out that in his particular school, there were college, alumni and engineering groups actively working to attract superior students and to improve the academic climate.

But the description of the general attitude over the nation concerning the glorifying of mediocrity cannot be overlooked. Another educator, Dr. Ernest V. Hollis, speaking at Mississippi State University recently, proved to be an outspoken critic of those in the education establishment who organize college curricula.

Since courses of study actually reach the heart of the matter of academic atmosphere, the two educators mentioned above appear concerned about the same development.

For example, Dr. Hollis noted that the advent of space exploration and the various races with the U.S.S.R. had led higher education in this country into "numerous foolish and fantastic proposals."

He did not elaborate on such proposals, but we recall the rather frantic turn towards the blanket term "science," which was applied to all our shortcomings in the late 1950's simply because a small segment of the Russian military managed to orbit a small "satellite." This was certainly no culmination of the Soviet educational system; it was a top-secret, isolated project.

However, there is always occasion for soul-searching in any field of endeavor. Dr. Hollis criticized those curriculum revisers who "cannot distinguish between the living past and the dead past." Dr. Taylor deplored the lack of strong, positive beliefs and convictions.

Of course, it is no simple task to trace the lines of force which join together to produce a vital, positive atmosphere in our academic institutions.

But certain lines of reasoning behind our planning can be drawn out if only for the purpose of observation. The country is undergoing a leap in population. What was at first expected to be a wave of new students as a result of the larger birth rate near the end of World War II has turned out to be a continuing thing.

This has caused many planners to think in terms of larger dimensions — more schoolrooms, more teachers, more equipment, and at the college level, more degrees. It's an understandable turn of events, but what about the matter of quality, of scholastic excellence?

Caught up in an atmosphere of mass production, every teacher and student from the primary grades through graduate study turns out to be a cog in a wheel. And let us beware if some of the gear teeth prove longer or shorter than average, lest the machinery will not turn out its "normal" products.

Yet these very longer or shorter "teeth" among the wheels could be the students or teachers of true distinction Dr. Taylor was referring to.

At the higher levels of education, certain universities in the country have been referred to as "degree mills." This is part of the same panic that says we must turn out great numbers of Ph. D's in order to maintain standards.

What sort of standards? When the college graduates are seeking their advanced degrees — institutional economy being what it is — these older students are engaged as part time faculty members to teach undergraduates. This gives the younger college students make-shift training at a time when they are in their most formative years, at that time when the atmosphere of higher education is really established.

This is but one of the practices resulting from the prevailing attitude of haste, which has struck not only our educational system but other phases of American life as well. In fact, the spirit of "hurry now, we're growing up!" is one of the more undesirable features of adolescence; it does not reflect maturity.

There is another involved story of requirements set up by regional accrediting associations, which while necessary in many respects, serve nonetheless as a means for some colleges and universities to let decisions on curricula and other policies come to them tailor-made. The final result again follows the mass production pattern.

So it is encouraging to see educators, particularly those in our own area, looking into the problem of improving scholastic standards as the number of students continues to climb. It's a great task, but one we feel must be coped with in a sober manner. Truly, the brains and spirit of America are at stake.

Manageable In Units

Nothing in the world pleases most politicians quite as much as bloc voting — if they can control the bloc. This, of course, is the reason for the current integration rage. The Johnson administration wants to take the Negro vote en masse, in a bloc or, if you please, like a flock of sheep, with the flock following a local Negro leader who serves as a bellwether and with some white politician leading the bellwether along with a rope.

Roger W. Babson, business prognosticator and in some sense a political analyst as it relates to business, said:

"Politicians and labor leaders want men to be manageable in units. Their goal can be far more easily achieved if individualism can be submerged. In America's a-borning period, the rugged individual never let his private convictions be smothered by the group judgment of a committee, a board of directors, or even a political party. A man believed that 'one with God is a majority.' Democracy came from many hours of 'cracker-barrel' discussion in country stores where quiet reigned. Thinking requires quiet, and time to relax and chew things over."

A man who is regarded as an opponent on some sort of political body may actually do his constituents more good than all the rest of the members combined. Even if he votes "No" to everything the majority wants, he's likely to let the other members know things won't just slip by without being noticed.

When we have lost "rugged individualism," when people cease to think for themselves, when men and women become manageable in units, as in minority bloc voting, democracy is in danger and will be lost unless the trend is stopped.

Have we reached the point where men would rather be agreeable than right, where they take the easy path instead of the just one, where fear of dispute makes them yield to pressure?

Whether a man is white or black, whether his position is great or small, whether he belongs to a so-called majority or to a minority, he should do his own thinking and cast his own vote. Only in this way can his country remain free and great.

Distressed Actress Given Assistance By R. Kennedy

IF YOU ARE A world-known actress in distress in a foreign land, it's mighty helpful to have Attorney General Robert Kennedy take a keen personal interest in your welfare.

As head of the Justice Department, he is in a powerful position to solve problems with a dispatch and thoroughness that a veteran diplomat can't equal.

That was the great good fortune of movie star and songstress Judy Garland, who recently made global headlines with a stormy performance in Australia followed shortly thereafter by a "critical illness" in Hong Kong.

In a number of cables between the British crown colony and the Justice Department, through the accommodating auspices and facilities of the State Department, the young attorney general manifested much concern over Miss Garland's widely-publicized plight.

Through his direct intervention, the way was cleared for the immediate arrival of her doctor and manager.

U. S. Consul General Edward Rice kept Kennedy fully informed of Miss Garland's condition. In one cable he reported he had personally delivered to the hospitalized actress the attorney general's warm message of concern.

EVEN RICE'S CABLES to Secretary of State Rusk regarding Miss Garland were marked "Pass to Attorney General."

Aides of Kennedy say he was introduced to the singer by his brother-in-law and sister, Peter and Patricia Lawford. Lawford is a movie actor and they reside in Hollywood. Through them Kennedy and his wife have become acquainted with numerous stage and screen performers.

This little-known aspect of the Attorney General's life will be highlighted in a book to be published next month. One chapter will deal with the late Marilyn Monroe.

Kennedy's efforts in behalf of Miss Garland are not the first time he has used his official influence to help a theatrical personality.

The attorney general went to bat for British actor Richard Burton when his entry into the U. S. was challenged on the ground of his premarital relations with his current wife, Elizabeth Taylor.

Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on immigration, demanded Burton be barred. The Immigration Service was prepared to do that, but was overruled by Kennedy, who held the Briton was admissible because the State Department had approved his visa.

COSTLY SENATE SEAT — Pierre Salinger, who emerged the winner in a four-way race for the California Democratic senatorial nomination, is telling friends his election campaign will cost more than $1 million.

The portly former White House press secretary also is saying he is more worried about the deep split in the Democratic party than his Republican opponent.

According to Salinger, he doesn't expect too much trouble licking George Murphy, the GOP nominee, if Governor "Pat" Brown and other powerful Democrats who opposed Salinger will throw their full weight behind him. He clearly has strong misgivings about that.

"If they don't give me all-out backing," Salinger told the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, "I'll be in real trouble."

One of his biggest problems in getting this much-needed inner party support is coming to a workable understanding with Governor Brown on federal patronage — which has been largely in his hands since President Johnson took office. Brown's ties with the White House are close and strong.

Several weeks before the senatorial primary, the President personally designated Brown as "state coordinator" for the fall election.

This backstage move was a direct brush-off of Assembly Speaker Jesse ("Big Boss") Unruh, who played a key role in engineering Salinger's last-minute senatorial candidacy and his grandiose ambitions to be top ruler of California Democrats. Unruh has close ties to Attorney General Robert Kennedy. They had a lengthy conference during Kennedy's visit in Los Angeles this week to deliver a speech.

In an effort to come to terms with Brown, Salinger made an unannounced trip to Cleveland, where Brown was attending the annual Governors' Conference.

CONVENTION PLANS — A special communications system, including an elaborate television set-up, is being installed in the White House to enable the President and his lieutenants to be in constant touch with the Democratic national convention in Atlantic City in late August. Under present plans, he will not appear at the convention until after he has been nominated.

With the Republican nomination virtually assured for Senator Barry Goldwater, White House insiders have started deliberating the selection of top Democratic convention officials — chairman of the Platform Committee, the keynoter and permanent chairman. . . . Another secret serviceman has suddenly been switched from the White House detail to a lesser assignment. Secret Service insiders attribute this departure to a "mistake" made by the agent in having a "friendly" drink with the wife of a member of the White House staff. The agent is now hunting counterfeiter. . . . Sam Houston Johnson, brother of the President is living in Austin with a sister. Sam is telling friends he is eschewing the limelight while his brother is in the White House. When his brother was vice president, Sam resided in the capital and was readily accessible to newsmen.

Fever Possible Without Illness

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Is it possible to have fever and still not be sick? Your answer will settle an argument. I say that an above-normal temperature does not always indicate illness. My husband says, none-sense. Where there's smoke there must be fire. — Mrs. D.

Comment: Nervousness can elevate the temperature reading. There have been unusual cases reported in which temperatures as high as 106 degrees and over have been due to nervousness. But these are museum-pieces in the realm of health lore.

However, a slight increase in temperature is not at all uncommon. A good name for this is "psychogenic fever." Doctors have seen proof of this for years, and in many cases may have overlooked it. Without question, the temporary rise was due to emotional disturbance.

For example, Mrs. X. is admitted to the hospital. The nurse takes her temperature. You look at her chart. The reading may be a little bit over 100 degrees rectally. And so may be the next reading. However, there is a drop to normal after that. It seems Mrs. X. has calmed down and learned that a hospital is not a chamber of horrors after all.

I have observed hundreds of such charts over the years in which the only reason I could ascribe to this phenomenon was nervousness.

EMOTIONALLY DISTURBED A few years ago Drs. Kern L. White and Walter N. Long Jr., of the University of North Carolina wrote an interesting paper. They said that transient elevation of temperature without apparent cause, immediately after hospital admission, suggested that the patient was emotionally disturbed.

In examining alternate hospital admission charts they found that almost 4 per cent of all first admissions had fever without apparent cause. It will interest he-men, who think they do not scare easily, to know that this phenomenon occurred more frequently in men 21 to 40 years old than in other population groups.

The doctors also found that this incidence of obscure fever was four times greater among first admissions to the psychiatric service than on other services.

I hope this information puts an end to your argument, Mrs. D. Make your husband pay up.

There are many doctors who prefer to stand on the sidelines rather than overtreat a patient. Others are so fanatical about this that they are known as therapeutic nihilists: they use drugs and other treatments as little as possible. Still others say what's a doctor for? He must use every bit of armament he has, to bear on disease. I suppose the best procedure is using good judgement: to know when to treat actively and when to let nature take over.

In lecturing to students in Great Britain about 150 years ago a Dr. Abernathy said: "I will rather be the executioner myself than suffer the disease to kill the patient." It seems the good doctor believed in going down fighting for his patient.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: What is meant by the "mump gland"? — Mrs. Q.

Comment: I suppose you mean the parotid gland. It is a salivary gland which secretes saliva into the mouth. It is located at the angle of the jaw, in front of and below the ear. Attacked by a virus, the disease is known as mumps. Quite contagious, but self-limited.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How To Stop Killing Yourself," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Assault Planned On Young In U.S.

AT HIGHLY SECRET meetings in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, the top echelon of the Communist Party's "youth" cadres has planned a new assault on America's young people.

The decision: to set up new and innocuously named Communist front groups which will recruit them in furtherance of the Kremlin's grand strategy for immobilizing and subverting this country's will to victory in the Cold War.

Taking part in these meetings are not the old wheelhorses of the Communist Party nor the superannuated leaders of past efforts to seduce American youth. New faces and names unknown even to sophisticated observers of the Red Fifth Column have been sprung from the sleeper apparatus.

Until the secret strategy sessions were called to order, only a handful of top Communist leaders knew of the existence of these people — hence the "sleeper" designation. The party believes that its new Operation Youth is of sufficient importance to risk breaking the cover of these new activists.

When the new Communist-run youth movements are unveiled to the public, they will stress only their "socialist" orientation. In order not to compromise organizing drives, the "peace" theme will be played down. The usual anti-American slogans will not be used. Instead, there will be praise for both the United States and the Soviet Union as the two nations which can direct the destinies of mankind.

AT THE SAME TIME, there will be energetic criticism of Red China. Unless it gets out of hand, the manipulators of the new youth groups will even permit a certain amount of talk about keeping the Chinese Communist regime out of the United Nations.

Left-wing isolationism — "Why die for Berlin?" and "Who cares about the racists in South Vietnam?" — will be allowed to run rampant. The new Communist-front youth groups will be adequately, though not sumptuously, financed. Much use will be made of small newspapers and magazines which can spread the word and give the membership a sense of participation.

The State Department's support of the theory of "interdependence" — according to which the Soviet Union and the United States have a substantial body of mutual interests, our allies and we none — is tailor-made for the new youth drive. It removes the stigma of overt Kremlin idolatry.

AT THE SAME TIME, the growing participation of young people in the demonstrations, riots, and other assorted violations of public order is seen as an opening wedge to recruitment. The civil rights issue, party leaders believe, has shaken American youth out of its apathy. The hope is that this summer madness can be funneled into crypto-Communist activity before the natural faddism of youth has found another outlet.

Target date for the new drive is the opening of the fall term in the nation's schools and colleges. How successful it will be depends on the sense of young people.

But more than sense will be required if the United States is not to go through another round of collegiate Communism.

Behind the decision to launch a drive on the loyalties of American youth is a gloating realization that all the instrumentalities once available to counter Communist infiltration have been disarmed. The Supreme Court has effectively hamstrung the Subversive Activities Control Board and House and Senate Committees which deal with Communism.

This makes it a prime moment for a renewal of Communist subversion. Sense — and a public that refuses to be lulled by the new appeasement — can protect the country from thoughtless submission to Moscow's subversive efforts.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Ike Is Suggested As Vice-President

ON TWO OCCASIONS in this column I have suggested that the Republican Party, if it chooses to make a maximum effort to unseat the Democratic incumbent, should nominate Dwight Eisenhower as Vice President. Never mind that Ike almost surely doesn't want to become Vice President. Neither did he wish to become President, according to his recently published memoirs. The personal problem of persuading Ike to run is one thing, another is the question whether he is eligible. On this matter I have been assaulted by readers whose assumption was that I had never read the Constitution of the United States, or at least that I had not noticed the 12th and the 22nd Amendments thereto.

Now Mr. James Jackson Kilpatrick, an earnest and proficient student of the Constitution, a journalist, author, and editor of the Richmond News Leader, has researched the question deeply, and published his findings in the current issue of National Review. His analysis is brilliantly relevant, during the hiatus between the California primaries and the Republican Convention. The former has apparently established that Senator Goldwater will be the Republican standard bearer. The interesting political question at San Francisco is not whom shall the delegates nominate for President, but whom shall they nominate for Vice President. Whatever the General's misgivings about running for a subordinate office, the enormously important legal problem is now at the forefront of public discussion. In the event he were to consent, and — to assume the obvious — that nothing would please the Convention more than to have the opportunity to nominate him: would it all be legal?

VERY CLEARLY so, says Mr. Kilpatrick, who focuses his keen mind on the language of the Constitution, and comes up with the same conclusion that the Justice Department reached in 1960 when, according to General Eisenhower, he asked it, as a matter of academic curiosity, to rule on whether he might legally run for Vice President along with Richard Nixon in 1960.

He reasons this way: When the language of the law is ambiguous, one must probe the intentions of the legislators who enacted the law. This approach was identified seventy-five years ago by a distinguished legal scholar, Thomas M. Cooley, as the "polestar of constitutional construction." The point in question being, What did Congress intend? What Congress intended in 1864 is very very clear, namely, to prevent any man from becoming vice president who was ineligible to serve as president. That meant, in those gloriously uncomplicated days, that no one seeking the vice-presidency could (1) be other than native born, (2) be less than 35 years old, or (3) have lived less than 14 years in continuous residence in the United States.

Along came the trauma of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's four terms, whereafter the 80th Congress, under the leadership of Senators Taft and Wiley, set out to institutionalize certain anti-nastic hedges, in order to prevent a single individual's re-election for third, fourth, fifth terms. The debates during that period (1947) establish that that precisely was on the mind of the congressmen and senators who dispatched the 22nd Amendment to the states. Early drafts of the projected Amendment which decreed that presidents who had served two terms would not be "eligible to the office of President" were rejected. The Congress — as the debates, quoted at great length by Mr. Kilpatrick prove — had a single objective in mind, namely, to prevent an incumbent President from using the powers of his office to prolong his term indefinitely. When the amendment was finally crystallized it said simply that "No person shall be elected to the office of President more than twice." To argue that that is the same as "no person shall be eligible to serve as President more than twice" would imply that an ex-President could not even serve in the House of Representatives and act as Speaker of the House, thereby occupying a seat in the line of presidential succession, or for that matter that no ex-President could serve in certain posts in the Cabinet of an incumbent President, if his occupancy of that position put him in line for the Presidency according to the priority specified in the Presidential Succession Act.

MR. KILPATRICK'S point is not merely the technical one known to lawyers as Numero unus est exclusio alterius, but a profounder one: "Is this hair splitting?" Mr. Kilpatrick asks. "Some will say so. But Constitutions, in my own old-fashioned view, were meant to be strictly construed. The intention of the framers is paramount. Words must be given not only their ordinary meaning but also the gloss imparted to them by the legislative history of the time. The spirit and meaning of the Constitution would not be preserved, but rather would be violated, if the 12th and 22nd Amendments were read together to prevent Mr. Eisenhower from making himself available for a Vice Presidential nomination."

Motorcycle-Car Crash Injures Monroe Officer

A Monroe motorcycle policeman was injured Friday night in a motorcycle-car collision on DeSiard Street, near the five points intersection.

Billy Ray Greer, 28, was admitted to St. Francis Hospital late Friday with compound fracture of the right leg, two fractures of the left leg, and other possible injuries. His condition was not believed serious.

According to investigating police, Greer was traveling west on DeSiard Street when a car driven by Jeffrey Lee Young, 44, of 505 E. Carlton St., attempted a left turn in front of him. Greer's motorcycle struck the right rear side, throwing him several feet from the point of impact.

Young was booked on charges of reckless driving and negligent injury.

IBAGUE, Colombia (AP) — Landslides caused by heavy rains killed 10 persons Friday on the outskirts of the city, reported. Ten huts were swept into the flood waters.

Heavy winter rains have caused floods around this central Colombia city of 27,000, 80 miles south of Bogota.

BANQUET IS TONIGHT

State Convention Of Amvets Begins

The arrival Friday of Louisiana Amvets Commander A. J. Guidry of Baton Rouge and Mrs. Betty Feiders, New Orleans, state auxiliary commander, highlighted registration as the two organizations opened a three-day convention at Monroe's Virginia Hotel.

Registration by 5 p.m. totaled 72 Amvets and 20 auxiliary members, according to Commander Roy Tauzin of the local Walter S. Savage Post No. 5, host for the event.

Bulk of the registration was expected later, with large delegations due to arrive from New Orleans and Baton Rouge. They were expected to swell totals to near 150 Amvets and 70 auxiliaries.

Among the anticipated arrivals is Mrs. Leah Monstero, of New Orleans, the national auxiliary commander.

Activities Friday, besides registration starting at 1 p.m., included a pre-convention state executive committee meeting, an evening social and a boat ride on the Ouachita River.

First general session gets underway at 9 a.m. today on the hotel roof. Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard will extend the city's welcome, with Guidry responding for the convention.

Past Department Commander Emile E. Greenleaf also will speak.

An afternoon 1 p.m. session for the men will feature state and national officers reports. The auxiliary schedule covers meetings at 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Both groups will gather for a 7 p.m. banquet and 9 p.m. dance. Featured dinner speaker Roy R. Theriot, the Louisiana comptroller, will be introduced by master of ceremonies Frank McDermott.

Formal activities end Sunday with a 9 a.m. general session, with post-adjournment state executive committee meetings also slated.

Highlight of the final day will be election and installation of officers.

Chamber Head Of Louisiana Praises Bill

BATON ROUGE (AP)—President G. Allen Kimball of the Louisiana State Chamber of Commerce voiced praise Friday for swift action by Gov. John McKeithen and the legislature on the industrial inducement tax credit bill.

The legislation has won final legislative passage with landslide votes.

Kimball also said he was gratified at the outlook for possible favorable action on several other governmental improvement programs backed by McKeithen.

This included:

—Assurance to manufacturers that their tax burden at the end of the 10-year tax exemption periods will be in line with taxes on other property in the area.

—Centralized state purchasing.

—Central listing of all state employees.

—A code of ethics.

—Plans to revise the state Constitution by section.

—Repeal of the extra retirement benefits for legislators voted in 1963.

—Long-range plans for development of research facilities.

Lamar Walters, the chamber's executive secretary, cautioned "Louisiana employers face a minimum tax increase of $5-250,000 per year if House Bill 549 is enacted into law."

He said the bill would amend the employment security law by increasing maximum weekly benefits of the unemployed in such a manner that a single person previously earning $60 per week with "take home" pay—after taxes—of $51.26 could receive $40 per week from employer taxes, earn $5 per week in odd jobs, thus receiving $45 weekly, tax-free income, or only $6.26 less than while working fulltime in prior employment.

"What incentive is there for the individual to actively seek or retain fulltime employment during the 28-week period he is able to draw within $6.26 of what he has been earning?" he asked.

Maryland GOP To Send Four For Goldwater

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Maryland Republican convention which heard Gov. William W. Scranton's declaration of candidacy for the party's presidential nomination Friday named a 20-member GOP National Convention delegation including four known supporters of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

One of these, John W. Steffrey, claimed there are three others and there may be as many as nine by July, the officially uncommitted delegation. Goldwater backers earlier had expressed hope of getting up to half the state's delegates.

Maryland Republican Chairman Newton I. Steers said he felt that the Pennsylvania governor undoubtedly "had a terrific impact on the convention as well as on the country."

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, nominated last month for a third term, said he thought Scranton's speech was "very forceful."

"I am looking forward to a wide-open convention," Beall said.

Baltimore Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, who nominated Dwight D. Eisenhower for his first term as president and has been an active supporter of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for this year's nomination, warmly greeted Scranton upon his arrival in Baltimore.

McKeldin, a member of the delegate to the national convention, was not immediately available for comment after Scranton's speech.

But an aide said a short time earlier that McKeldin "as of now hasn't changed his position. He's still for Rockefeller."

Charlton Lyons Dislikes Move From Scranton

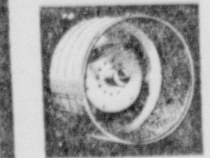

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The entry of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton into the Republican presidential race is a last minute attempt to stop Sen.

Barry Goldwater, a Louisiana Republican National Committeeman from Louisiana, said in a statement: "Sometime ago Louisiana deliberately and voluntarily declared for Goldwater because senator stands on the fundamental principles to which the Republican party of Louisiana is dedicated. The entry of Scranton as a candidate is a last-minute effort to stop Goldwater."

I do not believe the attempt will be successful. "The great question is not whether Goldwater or some other particular candidate will be the nominee. The great question is whether the eastern liberals are going to dominate the Republican party as they do the Democrat party." Lyons is also chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

NEW RED PACT

Erhard, Johnson Discuss Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson met with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard on Friday amid a less-than-amicable atmosphere over Moscow's signing of a new treaty with Communist East Germany.

While withholding final judgment until they see the actual text, U.S. authorities portrayed the Reds' friendship-and-aid treaty as falling far short of the Western - opposed pact long threatened by the Soviet Union in pushing against Berlin.

Erhard arrived from Canada on a previously planned one-day Washington visit for morning, afternoon and evening conferences with Johnson and other U.S. leaders on a variety of topics of mutual interest.

Word of the treaty was made public about the same time as the West German chief began his visit here. However, the Kremlin had given the Western allies a couple days' notice through diplomatic channels.

Officially, the U.S. government had no immediate response beyond a State Department statement saying the treaty cannot affect Soviet obligations to live up to the wartime allies' agreements on Germany.

The U.S., British and French ambassadors told the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow that changes in the status of Germany and Berlin cannot be made without agreement of the four powers, sources said.

The oral presentation by the Western envoys in Moscow and the State Department's comment were a reaffirmation of the long-standing Western position calling for continuation of the four-power arrangements on Germany until the country is reunited. Meanwhile, the West recognizes only the Bonn government now headed by Erhard.

The Russians have long proposed to conclude a formal peace treaty with the East German regime headed by Walter Ulbricht. That has threatened a crisis because the Western allies want no tampering with West Berlin — deep inside East German territory — or setting of German boundaries without their consent.

U.S. authorities suggested Friday that Ulbricht, now on a Moscow visit, got from Soviet Premier Khrushchev, the friendship pact as a stop in lieu of the more significant peace treaty Ulbricht wants.

It was noted that:

1. Moscow has had somewhat similar treaty connecting the Soviet Union with the East European satellites since September 1955. Friday's accord is a two-way arrangement between East Germany and the Soviet Union, but East Germany is already a member of the Warsaw Pact Communist military alliance.

2. So far as is known prior to study of the text the treaty does not affect either the boundaries between East Germany and Poland or the status of Berlin and its access routes.

3. The Soviet Union was careful to notify the West's Big Three Ambassadors Anatoly F. Dobrynin gave the word to Secretary of State Dean Rusk two days ago.

This diplomatic procedure contrasts with rough tactics employed by the Kremlin in past years when putting the squeeze on Berlin.

Hebron Church Reunion Sunday

The annual homecoming of the Old Hebron Church will be held Sunday on the grounds, located on the Sikes - Grayson highway in Winn parish.

The day-long activities will begin with a singing meet about 10 a.m. after which the services will be held and then dinner on the grounds.

Established on Jan. 25, 1845, the church's homecoming annually attracts several hundred persons, both former members and their relatives and friends.

Swedish Court Sentences Spy To Life

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A criminal court on Friday imposed a life sentence on Swedish Col. Stig Wennerstrom, who for 14 years betrayed to the Soviet Union secrets of his homeland, the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The judicial climax of Sweden's worst espionage scandal came just 10 days before Soviet Premier Khrushchev is due in Stockholm on a goodwill tour of Scandinavia. Premier Tage Erlander has declined to comment on how the case might affect Khrushchev's visit.

The court tried Wennerstrom, 57, only for his offenses against Sweden, though the dapper air force officer and diplomat testified that most of his activity at official posts in Moscow, Washington and Stockholm was directed against NATO. He was air attache in Washington from 1952 to 1957.

Prosecutor Werner Ryhninger accused him of handing the Russians at least 160 top defense secrets of this neutral nation in a career of espionage that netted him "hundreds of thousands of dollars." The government estimated it cost Sweden $50 million to replace defense installations he betrayed.

The life sentence is the most severe penalty in peacetime in Sweden, which has not been involved in war for a century. With good behavior, the man who said his Soviet code name was "The Eagle" would be eligible for parole in 10 years.

The court also stripped Wennerstrom of his air force rank and ordered him to pay $95,520 in damages.

Notice of the sentence was sent to Wennerstrom in a special steel and concrete prison cell where he has been confined most of the time since he attempted suicide by taking an overdose of barbiturates last October.

An air attache abroad and later a disarmament expert in the Swedish Foreign Ministry, Wennerstrom was arrested last July 20 while preparing to flee to Spain.

Mrs. Carin Rosen, a servant in his household, was given a $5,000 reward and a police commendation for rounding up film rolls and other evidence that led him to confess.

In a largely secret trial that opened April 9, Wennerstrom said, "My sympathies gradually changed to see the Russian government's peace and coexistence line as correct." He said the Russians gave him an unlimited expense account and weapons systems today have been compromised by whatever information he may have received at this time."

He told the court it was easy to collect information about U.S. defense industries. The U.S. government cited him for "exceptionally meritorious conduct" after his tour in Washington ended.

After the arrest, U.S. defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara acknowledged at a Washington news conference that Wennerstrom might have received certain information on the design of American weapons.

"But he left this country in 1957," McNamara said. "And I am told that none of our

ACCIDENTS DOWN ON THE FARM

Farming is one of our most dangerous occupations. The death rate continues to mount while industrial fatalities are declining. Mechanization means less work for farmers but it has increased the number and severity of injuries.

In 1962 more than 3,100 lives were lost in rural areas. For every death there were 100 serious and disabling injuries. According to Dr. John H. Powers of Cooperstown, N.Y., few farmers can afford to be hurt or spend weeks in the hospital during the busy summer months. The peak periods are July and August. At least half of all the mishaps occur while doing routine farm chores, such as milking, tilling the fields, cleaning the barn, harvesting, or repairing fences.

Children share in these hazards. Only on the farm are youngsters allowed to come into contact with heavy equipment or to roam at will in close proximity to operating machinery. They get hurt, often fatally, when playing near Dad in the field or around animals. The father may not realize his little ones are in the work area and runs over them with the tractor or harvester. They may walk into the moving machine or be drawn into the binder before it can be stopped.

The American farm is not complete without tractors but many farmers fail to realize what a lethal weapon they can be. Young boys are allowed to drive them across fields and pastures. Now and then they take along a younger brother or sister who must hang on because there is only one seat. The tractor hits a bump or a rock and the driver or his passenger is likely to fall under the wheel.

Many men have been crushed by their own equipment. They are run over by the tractor when they step off and leave the engine in gear. Others are crushed when the machine is operating on a steep hill and topples over.

Dr. Powers believes 90 percent of all agricultural accidents are preventable because the majority are caused by carelessness, ignorance, and failure to keep buildings and equipment in good condition.

Horoscope Forecast

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1964

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Until the sun goes down all kinds of cleaning and renovating of your surroundings needs to be done if you are going to have these in such a condition that you can concentrate upon the vitally important matters to be accomplished. Forget frivolity until evening, when you can be happy.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Working on your favorite hobbies is the best way to spend this day. Devote some time to children about you. Recreation with friends tonight should include mate.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be sure to get home in immaculate order during day so that friends can come in tonight and you can feel proud. Don't take any risks with money. Make no commitments whatsoever.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Postpone recreation until evening so that you get important duties behind you first. Don't neglect any reports that are important. Today's work can bring fine benefits later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of spending much money on frivolity during day, use it for worthwhile purposes. Go on a sort of economy binge. Then amusement can be very inexpensive tonight.

LEO (July 22 to August 21) Stop picking on others and concentrate on improvements, your appearance, etc. Plan for a gala evening. You thrive on adulation and this is a fine day and night for such.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) Petty tasks require early handling and others also come to you for help, so be sure to carry through before going out tonight. Make home brighter. Paint, clean, etc.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Planning a social evening is fine whether you plan to visit or have guests. Handle any problems with pals first. Then have a delightful time being gay, charming.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Any unfinished credit or career affairs must be completed forthwith today before stepping out tonight. Meet obligations to others. Avoid application of pressure of any sort.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Be sure you first study well the details of any new outlets you contemplate getting into tonight. Put that new contact to the test. Information given may be erroneous.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) Busy yourself with any joint affairs with others that are important right now. Be sure you are exact and win over others. Be conscientious as well as very alert.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) Good day to clear up any problems you may have with associates so that greater cooperation exists. Come to real understanding. Then take time to have social pleasure together.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) You have many unfinished tasks to get into today, so be sure you also please co-workers. Then when all is done, you can step out leisurely, poised. Dress very well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, you will find it necessary to encourage your progeny as much as possible if you want to see the fine possibilities in this chart materialize. Too much criticism would cause your son or daughter to withdraw into a shell, as it were. However, do not neglect a rightful amount of discipline so that the orderly plan of life is set early. Work with the public is fine.

D-Day Plus 20 Years

Portsmouth Harbor

Twenty years after D-Day, General Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the scene of the events that radically altered the course of World War II to record his reminiscences. In this exclusive conversation with Walter Cronkite, General Eisenhower recounted the historic moments of the Normandy invasion. This is the seventh of a series of sixteen installments of the entire conversation, including many portions not broadcast, prepared by the New York Herald Tribune. Here the former President is back at Portsmouth Harbor on the southeast coast of Britain, where part of the fleet of 9,000 vessels and 175,000 troops embarked for the coast of France on June 6, 1944, telling Mr. Cronkite of the naval problems connected with the invasion.

MR. CRONKITE: General Eisenhower, this harbor of Portsmouth must have been absolutely crisscrossed with ships on the morning of D-Day.

GEN. EISENHOWER: Oh, it was. I came down here on June 5th and again on the 6th. Some of the follow-up people were still here on the 6th, but on the 5th the place was jammed. The men were loaded on the ships that would take them across the Channel, and they were all crowded. I talked with them. It would be all right. That was all you could say.

MR. CRONKITE: General, how far inland were the troops backed up in the country, side before the invasion?

GEN. EISENHOWER: As I remember, about 12 to 15 miles, maybe 20 miles back of the English coast. Talk about censorship. That whole area was fenced in. No news allowed out. The soldiers were behind barbed wire for security reasons, so the secret of the invasion wouldn't get out.

MR. CRONKITE: There must have been a lot of men, I suppose, who wished they weren't here that morning. But there must have been an awful lot of men who wished they were aboard, who wanted to be aboard for the first day of the invasion.

GEN. EISENHOWER: They had all been trained and they knew their duty. Of course, no one likes to be shot at, but I must say that more people wanted in than wanted out.

CHURCHILL WANTED IN

MR. CRONKITE: One who wanted in but was left behind was the Prime Minister, Winston Churchill himself, wasn't he?

GEN. EISENHOWER: Yes, he wanted to come and he told me of his intention to come along, and I told him he couldn't do it. I was commander-in-chief of this operation, and I wasn't going to risk losing him. He was worth too much to the Allied cause.

He thought a moment and said, "You have the operational command of all the forces."

I said, "Yes, that's right."

He said, "But you are not responsible administratively for the make-up of the crews."

And I said, "No, that's right."

He said, "Well, then I can sign on as a member of the crew of one of His Majesty's ships, and there's nothing you could do about it."

I said, "That's correct. But, Winston, you will make my burden a lot heavier if you do it."

So we left it at that.

THE KING, TOO

Luckily, the King (George VI) learned of this somehow, and the King sent word to me and said, "Well, as long as the Prime Minister feels that it is desirable for him to go along on the operation, I think it would be my duty to go along with you, too."

So the King sent word to the Prime Minister that he would also be there.

Well, of course, the Prime Minister didn't want to take a chance on exposing the King to that kind of danger. So he didn't go either.

That was the way we stopped him.

MR. CRONKITE: Did the Prime Minister see you often?

GEN. EISENHOWER: Oh, yes. I remember particularly discussing with him the desirability of the ANVIL operation, the invasion of southern France. He thought it would be very nice to abandon that invasion. And I didn't. We had quite a few talks about that. (Gen. Eisenhower eventually had his way. The Allies invaded southern France on Aug. 15, 1944.)

The Prime Minister came down to see me just before D-Day to give me some instructions, or at least advice, about dealing with Gen. de Gaulle. (Charles de Gaulle was then leader of the Free French in exile.) Churchill was a staunch old fighter, that fellow.

MR. CRONKITE: He was opposed to this operation for a while, wasn't he?

GEN. EISENHOWER: For a long time. You know, in the last briefing we had — I think it was about May 15th — he used an expression that Americans thought rather odd. He said, "I'm hardening towards this enterprise." To us this meant that he was beginning to become more confident of its success. But like the British, he had bad memories of World War I and those terrible battles where you lost several hundred thousand men and gained nothing. So I think it was only natural that he should be cautious about giving his blessing to an operation where World War I might happen all over again. I told him we were coming ashore equipped to make this a war of movement.

put our minesweepers ahead of them to make sure we weren't going to be hurt by mines. In that connection, we had another fine thing going. When you get within several miles of the coast, you can easily get lost in the darkness. You have very few landmarks you can see. So we put in tiny submarines that had to lie on the bottom of the Channel during that day when we postponed. They came up during the night and showed lights out to sea to guide our boats in to the beaches, to keep the landing craft going in where they were supposed to land.

NAVAL DIFFICULTIES

You must realize, Walter, how hard it is for small boats to find their way to a particular beach. There were some bad currents, to say nothing of enemy fire and confusion and everything else. We had a great deal of trouble getting into the right places. As a matter of fact, we didn't get into the right places often. But the naval support was absolutely superb.

MR. CRONKITE: What about the German Navy?

GEN. EISENHOWER: They had a mosquito fleet in Le Havre, and they tried to come out and damage us. But nothing much happened. There were some in Cherbourg, too. But nothing really bothered us. They were absolutely helpless, and their submarines couldn't get in at all. Our shields were too good.

MR. CRONKITE: Do you think you could have made this landing without air superiority? GEN. EISENHOWER: Oh no. We had not only knocked off the Luftwaffe, but as far back from the coast as two or three hundred miles, we had pock-marked every German airfield by our bombing and made them unusable. And then, of course, we had the bad weather. The Germans didn't believe we had a day relatively free of enemy interference, except what we met on the beaches.

MR. CRONKITE: Were the naval losses about what were expected, higher, or less?

GEN. EISENHOWER: We had very, very few. If you could call it a naval loss, we lost 700 men out of the 4th Division during a practice landing off the south shore of England a few weeks before the invasion. Some small German boats sneaked in and hit two of our LSTs.

I didn't have a report on it for twenty-four hours. If anyone had known about it, there would have been a lot of rescue work going on. But these poor fellows just went down, that's all.

NEXT: Gen. Eisenhower takes the invasion route across the English Channel, and then pays a visit to Pointe du Hoc, where a group of American Rangers showed great personal courage on that June day in 1944.

Gen. Eisenhower's Headquarters

THE DIFFICULTY of the channel crossing on invasion day was a big factor in the success of the attack. Small boats, such as these, in the English channel currents were hard to maneuver and oftentimes got off course, missing their landing by great margins.

YMCA Slates Programs For Women, Girls

The Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. is offering special summer programs for women and girls on Monday and Wednesday mornings.

Women's slimnastics is taught by Mrs. Ebert Van Buren at 9 a.m. and Mrs. Edwin R. Hughes will teach beginners swimming to women at 10:15 a.m. A swim class for women is also scheduled at 7:30 P.M. on Monday. Those interested in advanced instruction or recreational swimming attend at 10:15 a.m. Edwin Davis is the instructor.

School age girls are scheduled on Monday and Wednesday mornings for beginners swim, gymnasium and advanced swimming instruction beginning at 9 a.m. Miss Gayle Jones is the instructor.

Girls may also attend open swim periods every afternoon 2:30 to 4:30. They will also have opportunity to enroll in diving classes, water ballet, life saving and be on the swim team.

On June 26, Miss Mary Dee Leslie, women's physical education and aquatic director at Northeast Louisiana College, will join the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. staff to be in charge of women and girls activities. She will develop programs of synchronized swimming, water safety aide instruction, crafts and folk games.

Baton Rouge and New Orleans. Mrs. Hughes has taught swimming for a number of years and was in charge of swimming instruction at the Metairie Y.M.C.A. Branch in New Orleans. Miss Jones is a physical education major at Northeast College. Boys activities are scheduled Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings and every afternoon. Those interested in enrolling may call the YMCA 325-7391.

Tupawek Hosts Shoot

The annual Louisiana Field Archery Association's state championship tournament gets underway today at host Tupawek club's range just outside the West Monroe city limits.

Jack E. Bell, Tupawek president and vice president of the state group, said archers from at least six visiting clubs would compete.

Defending champions on hand are Robert House, Shreveport, men's instinctive; Mrs. Elise McBeth, West Monroe women's instinctive; Cecil McCloskey, Shreveport, men's free style; and Emma Gene Brown, Shreveport, women's free style.

The women will shoot two rounds of 28 targets each today with the final round of 28 being tomorrow.

Tournament officials include Ray Sanderson, West Monroe, field captain (umpire); V. M. Wallis, West Monroe, chairman of the tournament committee that includes club president Bell; and J. E. Bridges, West Monroe, range captain.

The tournament program:

SATURDAY

8 a.m.—Registration at Tupawek range.

9 a.m.—Hunters round, 28 targets.

Noon—Lunch, available at range.

1:30 p.m.—Animal round, 28 targets.

7:30 p.m.—Banquet, business meeting at Olinkraft Cafeteria.

SUNDAY

9 a.m.—Field round, 28 targets.

Noon—Lunch.

1:30 p.m.—presentation of awards.

There will be tournament dinner.

Optimist A edged the Jaycees, 8-7, in an Industrial League nine inning contest. Prince and Spillers were the winning battery while Fishman and Jones were the losers. David Kahn broke a 7-7 tie in the ninth with a run scoring double to end the extra inning fray. Spillers homered for the Optimist's other big hit.

Church of God downed First Baptist, 13-7, behind Levell McLeod and Bob Sills. Maroney and Becton were the losing battery. Lloyd and Beaubie each homered.

ABC humbled the Progressive Men's Club, 20-7, in Industrial play as Moore, Kelley, Kutz hit one homer each and Danna hit two for the winners. LaPietra went three for four for the losers. McGough and McCauldish were the winning battery while LaPietra and Guirlando were the losers.

In Church B action Good Hope downed Ridge Ave., 8-6. Bert Hay and Kenneth Wilson were the winning battery while Danny Fulton and Richard Harris took the loss. Good Hope's big bats were Kendall Grant and Dwight Housley, each with a three for three showing. Malcolm Bass homered for the losers.

College Place defeated Parkview 16-2 in a Church A League game. Leon Price and Earl Possey were the winners. J. Edwards and J. Moore took the loss. Ronnie Gwin went three for three with two homers. Fred Vogel got four for four and Blake Wilkinson two for two all for College Place.

Faith downed College Place, 9-4, in Church B play. Netherland and Gossett were the winning combination while Bushnell and Tucker took the loss. Fletcher hit a homer for the winners.

Also in Church B Emmanuel Baptist beat Temple Baptist, 9-4, with a winning battery of Thames and Jinks. Breland and Burroughs were the losers. J. Telano, R. Telano and Dean got two hits in three tries for the winners. Haley and Breland homered for Temple.

Coca Cola Bottling edged Cooley Printing, 10-8, in Industrial action with Strange and Shivor the winning battery. Smith and Futch were the losers. Fontana and Futch homered for Cooley and Roberts blasted one for the winners.

Classifications for men and women in instinctive and free style shooting. Boys and girls will shoot in intermediate, junior and cub divisions.

A special round may be offered out-of-state archers, but they will not be contenders for the state championships.

Perfect score for the tournament would be 560.

Championship contenders will score on a scratch basis with contenders entering the 400 or better scoring class. Other classifications will be graded lower, according to archers' skills, thus giving beginners opportunity to be winners in their own classifications.

The three rounds offer different targets and scoring:

Animal round—Life-sized animal targets used with marked wound and kill zones. Archers can use a maximum of three arrows at each target. They will be permitted third shot only if either of the first two shots miss either score zone.

Field round—Black and white rings on targets. Four arrows to be shot with scoring five and three points. Possible maximum of 20 points for each target.

Hunters round—Odd distance shooting at blackface targets on which the scoring rings are not visible to the archer. Simulates hunting conditions over same course as animal round. Same scoring system as field round.

Entry fee is $3.50 for adults, $2 for intermediates, and $1.50 for juniors and cubs.

Grambling Stars Getting Attention

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (Special)—Many of the scouts followed the Tigers during the regular season as president - coach Jones won his fourth straight Southwestern Athletic conference and NAIA district crowns. Grambling has a 25-3 record.

The Louisiana club will meet either Mayville, N.D., Georgia Southern or Liberty, W. Va. tonight for the NAIA title.

Unbeaten in three tournament appearances, Grambling faces the winner of a sudden - death losers bracket play-off re-scheduled for Friday.

Most of the talk centered around speculation that Kansas City Athletics owner Charles Finley hopes to personally corral Tiger standouts with his fat bank roll.

Finley talked with president-coach R. W. E. Jones and Grambling athletic director Eddie Robinson Sunday.

Robinson refused to confirm or deny that a second meeting has been scheduled by Finley to talk with certain Grambling players after the tournament.

All he would say about the canvassing was "considerable interest is being shown by scouts from a number of clubs, in our kids."

Whitey Harzog, Kansas City territorial supervisor, has watched Grambling with more than usual interest.

Wherever talent is broached, conversation turns to outfielder Doug Eiken and catcher Dave Pavlisc of Mayville. Tiger pitchers Bob Williams (8-1), Candy Robinson (8-1), lefty Alex "Pee Wee" Pero (5-1), and outfielders John Wayatt, Johnny Jeter and Thomas Simon.

The pitchers throw aspirins and the other fellows are daring and exciting.

Everybody has marveled at Grambling's dazzling speed. Julian Morgan, New York Mets, insists that "Grambling is the fastest college team I've ever seen. They haven't got a man who can't run big league. Have you seen that Wyatt kid? He gets down the line in 3.8 seconds."

He added that Grambling has the "speed and defense" to give clubs fits.

Athletic director Robinson feels that Grambling has some of the best college talent in the country.

"They tell me this John 'Blue Moon' Odon, recently signed by Kansas City, is the hottest prospect in baseball. I haven't seen 'Blue Moon,' but if he is better than Williams and Robinson, that $75,000 they paid for him is a steal."

In the last 10 years, Grambling stars have signed bonus contracts of more than $275,000.

Of the eight NAIA tournament signees who inked contracts last spring, four were Grambling stalwarts who pocketed $70,000.

The Tigers had almost as many players signed as all the teams in the NCAA major college tournament combined. Only five players were signed out of the Omaha meet.

Grambling is no stranger to the notebook and stop watch brigade in attendance here.

On August 22, 1963, the commission received a questionnaire-type memorandum from the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This outlined the steps in setting up a teal season, specifying the manner in which the hunt would be conducted and inquiring as to the cooperation which the states would offer in fully evaluating such a season.

Louisiana then moved that a season be established in 1964 and a resolution to this effect was adopted by unanimous vote of the 14 state council since more than a year would be available for organizing the special teal hunt this coming September.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDPUP

Christopher Sparkles As Mets Defeat Phils

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Christopher drove in three runs, two on his fifth homer, and sparked two big New York uprisings that beat Philadelphia 11-3 Friday night, the Mets' first victory over the Phillies since 1942.

The loss dropped the Phillies out of the National League lead. Christopher drove in one run with a key single when the Mets batted around for five runs in the third inning, wiping out a 2-0 Philadelphia lead, and cracked his homer at the climax of a four-run seventh.

He added a triple in the ninth and scored on a wild pitch.

Right-hander Tracy Stallard went the distance for the Mets, picking up his fourth victory in 11 decisions. The loss went to Dennis Bennett, the Phillie starter now 7-4.

Charlie Smith singled in two runs in the Mets' key third-inning assault while Ron Hunt tripled in two more in the seventh, putting Casey Stengel's forces out of reach.

Richie Allen had a solo homer for the Phils in the first.

The Cardinals, shut out by Don Drysdale Thursday night, have lost eight of their last 11 games and 14 of their last 20.

The Davis boys, Tommy and Willie, each hit a run-scoring single for the Dodgers, who dealt right-hander Ernie Broglio his fifth loss in eight decisions. Two of the runs were unearned as a result of a seventh-inning error by second baseman Julian Javier.

Koufax, 8-4, struck out six, walked three and let only one St. Louis runner past second base. That was in the fifth when the Cards had the bases loaded with two away on their first hit of the game—a single by Charlie James — and two walks. But Koufax got Broglio to hit into a forceout.

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Amalfitano belted the first grand slam homer of his career in a unique six-run sixth inning which swept the Chicago Cubs to a 7-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday.

The Cubs got only two hits in the big inning in which Pittsburgh's Bob Veale, allowing only a first-inning scratch single over five innings, blew completely apart.

Bob Buhl, en route to his seventh victory of the season, had a shutout until the ninth when a single by Bill Virdon, a double by Roberto Clemente and an infield out produced the lone Pirate tally. He allowed five hits.

Veale started the sixth by mowing down his 14th straight Cub on his eighth strikeout. But he gave Buhl his first walk and then walked Jimmy Stewart.

Lou Brock filled for the second out, moving Buhl to third. League-leading hitter Billy Williams singled Buhl across and Stewart to second.

A walk to Ron Santo filled the bases. With Ernie Banks at bat, Veale uncorked a wild pitch, scoring Stewart.

That brought in Roy Face, who intentionally walked Banks, again filling the bases.

Up came Amalfitano, who slammed Face's first pitch into

Hardin Hurdles To Repeat Win At 400 Meters

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth hobbled into the Olympic picture at 10,000 meters by winning the grueling event in 29:37.6 in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet Friday.

It was a duel between young Gerry Lindgren, a 118-pound high school student from Spokane, Wash., and John Macy of Houston, who is twice Gary's age. Macy, who won two distance events at this meet last year, stuck with the youth through most of the race but could not keep up with Lindgren in the closing laps.

Lindgren's time was under the qualifying standard of 29:40 for U.S. Olympic hopefuls.

It was the first time Lindgren had tried the long race.

Lindgren stepped up the pace on the 17th lap of the 25-lap race. Macy, who had been within two yards of Lindgren up to that point, gradually fell behind and trailed by 200 yards at the finish.

In an earlier event, Billy Hadden of Louisiana State became the federation's intermediate hurdle champion for the second straight year, winning the 400-meter race in 51.1 seconds.

HOUSTON (AP)—Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall won another pitching duel against Houston's Ken (No-Hit) Johnson Friday night, checking the Colts 3-0 on seven hits for his fourth shutout of the season.

It was the first meeting between the two pitchers since April 23 when Johnson pitched a no-hitter and lost to Nuxhall 1-0 as the Reds scored in the ninth inning on two errors.

Nuxhall, now 6-3, got the only support he needed when Frank Robinson tagged Johnson, 5-5, for a homer in the second inning. It was Robinson's 13th homer.

The Reds put the game out of reach with a two-run eighth-inning rally that chased Johnson. Gordy Coleman's single and Robinson's sacrifice fly drove in the runs.

Bob Lillis, Eddie Kasko and Archie Roberts each collected two hits for Houston.

Scranton Refuses To Make Choices

By United Press International

Throughout his brief but successful political career, Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania has been a man who always refused to make the plunge into the political pool himself and had to be pushed.

In 1960 it took the urging of Republican chairmen from six counties to force Scranton to leave his job with the State Department and come home to run for Congress. While the late President John F. Kennedy carried the district by 30,000 votes, Scranton won his race by 17,000.

Two years later Scranton announced plans to run for a second term in the House and then retire from politics. This time it took pressure from all the state's top GOP leaders and from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to talk him into running for governor.

On election day the Democrats had a bulge of 160,000 registered votes. But when the ballots were counted, Scranton had won by a whopping 470,000 votes.

Although slow to make his decisions to run for office, the 46-year-old governor goes all out when he starts to campaign, ringing doorbells day and night with his wife, Mary, and leaving no stone unturned to dig up votes.

A member of the wealthy family which gave the Pennsylvania city its name, the slender, boyish-looking governor makes no attempt to hide the fact he is worth an estimated $8 million or $9 million.

Scranton got a political indoctrination early in life at the knee of his mother, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, a long-time leader in Pennsylvania Republican politics who often took to the campaign trail to help the party.

Educated at Yale, he was a pilot during World War II and later worked for his family's law firm. Before running for Congress he served as an assistant to Secretary of State Christian Herter in the Eisenhower administration.

Since moving into the rustic governor's mansion at Indian-town Gap, Pa., with his wife and four children, Scranton has earned a reputation for political courage in the face of opposition.

He pushed a one per cent increase in the state's sales tax through a reluctant legislature on the ground it was essential to the public welfare. More recently, he put through a reform in the unemployment compensation system over the protests of many politicians and of organized labor.

Politically, Scranton identifies himself with the moderate wing of the GOP, criticizing those who "fight a rear-guard action against yesterday." But he also maintains that the states "can perform many functions better than any government in Washington," a belief that can get a good deal of mileage in the Republican party.

Lodge Throws Weight Behind Scranton Entry

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — "We are proud to support Scranton and we know he will be victorious in July and then again in November."

Rabb made his announcement after conferring for an hour with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He held a news conference on the lawn outside Eisenhower's office here.

Rabb said he did not confer with Lodge on the endorsement but quickly added, "I'm sure he would approve."

Rabb, a New Yorker, said he met with Eisenhower to advise the general of his intentions.

"Gen. Eisenhower made it very clear that what he favored was a wide open convention," Rabb said.

Rabb said the Lodge organization would not release the delegates already committed to the American ambassador to South Viet Nam.

"We are going to hold our delegates and do what we can for Scranton," Rabb said.

De Gaulle's Images Vary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt once complained that Charles de Gaulle saw himself as a messiah. Winston Churchill pictured De Gaulle as a strutting Joan of Arc.

That was 21 years ago; but, in releasing once-secret Roosevelt - Churchill correspondence Friday, the State Department went out of its way to say these tart remarks did not concern this country's present troubled relations with De Gaulle.

The wartime dispatches between the U.S. president, Roosevelt, and the British prime minister, Churchill, were contained in a document on "U.S. Foreign Relations, Europe, 1943."

A State Department spokesman noted that the publication was part of the department's continuing program of releasing dispatches from its files 20 years or more old, "in the interest of historical clarity and public information."

"The publication of these records has absolutely no significance in terms of our current relations with various states," the press officer Richard L. Phillips said.

Although State Department historians have authority to censor out items that "would tend to impede current diplomatic negotiations," or that would give needless offense, they left in enough to cause a stir in diplomatic circles.

At the time of the Roosevelt-Churchill exchanges, De Gaulle was an aspiring French leader in exile. In another two decades the public may see current dispatches concerning the well-known U.S. differences with De Gaulle as president of France.

Back in 1943, Roosevelt was so "fed up" with De Gaulle that he told Churchill the Frenchman should head for "the oasis of somewhere." Instead of continued political "machinations" Roosevelt asked, "why doesn't De Gaulle go to war?"

"I am no more enamored of him than you are," Churchill wrote Roosevelt, "but I would rather have him on the committee than strutting about as combination Joan of Arc and Cleopatra."

Said Churchill's foreign minister, Anthony Eden: "De Gaulle has caused me more trouble than all the other allies put together."

As 1943 began, etc 6th graf ta6

As 1943 began, De Gaulle was in London heading the British-backed French National Committee. The Germans had overrun most of Europe.

De Gaulle wanted to go to French North Africa, where Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces had landed the previous November. But the United States was already dealing there with Gen. Henry Honore Giraud, a French officer who had escaped from the Germans and been smuggled into North Africa by submarine.

The U.S. diplomatic papers portray De Gaulle as angling for political leadership of the French, with British support. U.S. policy was to give top priority to the war, putting off the creation of a French government until the Germans had been defeated and the French people could choose. Giraud was described as a dedicated, nonpolitical general.

In a New Year's Day, 1943 cablegram to the "former naval person"—Churchill's World War II code name—Roosevelt said: "I feel very strongly that we have a military occupation in North Africa and as such our commanding general has complete charge of all matters civil as well as military."

"We must not let any of our French friends forget this for a moment. By the same token I don't want any of them to think that we are going to recognize any one or any committee or group as representing the French government or the French Empire. The people of France will settle their own affairs after we have won this war."

"Why doesn't De Gaulle go to war? Why doesn't he start north by west half west from Brazzaville? It would take him a long time to get to the Oasis of Somewhere."

Roosevelt's term "Brazzaville" was apparently a play on words. Brazzaville is the capital of the former French Congo in west-central Africa.

As matters turned out, De Gaulle arrived and soon captured the leadership. By November he had become sole president of the French Committee of National Liberation in Exile.

Eisenhower's political adviser, Robert Murphy, reported that Giraud had an overriding purpose of prosecuting the war but "has not been a tower of political strength in his honest and simple desire."

DEAR ABBY

Keep Quiet But Keep Your Eyes Open, Gal

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a dentist's assistant and I would like to know how often it is NECESSARY for a 26-year-old woman to have her teeth cleaned. We have this pushy young woman who would get her teeth cleaned once a week if we'd let her. I heard the dentist tell her that once every four months was about right, but she calls and claims her teeth feel "furry" and she wants them cleaned more often. The doctor has cleaned them twice in three months just to satisfy her, but she still calls wanting another appointment. I think she is trying to make a social contact with the dentist. What do you think?

DENTAL ASSISTANT
DEAR ASSISTANT: Let the dentist decide how often he wants her in his chair. If she's trying to sink her teeth into him, don't gum up the works.

DEAR ABBY: Most of the time I mind my own business, but this seems too important to ignore. An unmarried man in our neighborhood has had a steady procession of cleaning women and girl friends coming and going regularly. You can't even tell which is which. This last one seems to be staying longer than the rest. With summer coming, on their comings and goings are so plain to see—especially by the children. Since some are old enough to wonder why a bachelor seems to have a "wife," how does one explain it? I can't say the woman over there is his "wife" because he might make a change next week. What do you suggest?

OHIO
DEAR OHIO: I suggest that you tell anyone who inquires (including the children) that you know nothing about your neighbor's personal life.

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of hearing widows complain that all the men who ask them out are aggressive to the point of being insulting. I was a widow for 16 years and never had a bit of trouble. I had my first date with a gentleman on February 10th, 1961. We saw each other regularly once a week for almost two years. He called me MRS. and I called him MRS. TER. On New Year's Eve of 1963 I told him he could call me Margaret, and he asked me to call him Darwin. We shook hands on it. On St. Valentine's Day he asked me if he could kiss me. I said yes. Up until this time he had never laid a hand on me. We were married the following Thanksgiving. So tell those widows to act like ladies and they will be treated as such.

MRS. D. M. F.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN THERAPY": You need not be ashamed. We have all suffered from mental illness in varying degrees and durations. But many of us have managed to recover before it became serious enough to seek psychiatric help. What is a siege of deep grief, excessive guilt, haunting fear, burning jealousy or lingering depression if not mental illness? I know not one person who has managed to escape all these "sick emotions" but I know many who will deny it.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Wire Rack Helps Keep Her Vegetables Fresh

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I've got troubles. I've got tomato plants. Once they start growing wooooee . . . do they grow! I've always put sticks in the ground for them to climb on. I tried tying strings to hold them up.

I've also got bugs. Spray with whatever I might, we still get bugs on the tomato plants. Do you have an answer?

Hungry

Dear Sir:

You might try strips of old nylon stockings to tie your heavy tomato vines to the stakes. The stockings will not cut the plants. Also, I have found pipe cleaners excellent.

As for the bugs (most times called fruit flies), you can buy mosquito netting and tie over the entire bush. I did not find this too satisfactory after three years of practice! Fruit flies sometimes crawl through it.

The only answer we have, and the cheapest we have found, is to save your plastic bags or buy wax-coated sandwich bags (these are inexpensive and are what the housewife ordinarily puts a sandwich in when she packs her school children's lunches). Buy an inexpensive stapler (or one could use rubber bands, safety pins or straight pins), and right after bloom appears, and as soon as you see that little tomato forming, staple a plastic bag over each bunch of little tomatoes.

As the tomato grows you will be able to see it though this bag. No bug, (as far as I know) and have tried for 10 years) can get through the plastic.

Also, the tomato will keep growing, growing and growing and the sun gets through this plastic or wax-coated bag.

If you are real lucky and have huge tomatoes . . . by the time they get that big you can replace the sandwich bag with a larger bag. This is the only answer we have found and it is perfect so far as we are concerned.

These bags keep crawling insects off our tomatoes. They may be attached to the bush with a pipe cleaner!

By using these bags one can pick off the ripe tomato and replace the bag over the rest of them until they are ready for eating . . .

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

When the temperature soars to 116 degrees, as it does in the central section of India, Indian women have several traditional ways to keep cool, according to Mrs. Pupil Jayakar.

Mrs. Jayakar is presently in New York City as a member of the Indian Committee for the World's Fair. She is also one of India's leading career women. She is dollar-a-year Executive Director of the Handicrafts and Handlooms Industries of India and is the author of many articles and books on art.

Mrs. Jayakar said that most Indian women wear saris, a six-yard length of colorful fabric pleated and draped over a little bare midriff bodice and long drawstring petticoat. For summer, India produces gossamer handwoven fabrics which, when draped correctly, cannot be seen through, yet allow air to circulate freely and cool the body.

NOT WORN HERE

Of course saris are not worn here, but Mrs. Jayakar highly recommends Indian muslin or madras as the coolest fabric for summer wear. Many manuurers now use these and summer fabrics are selling at the World's Fair from inexpensive ones to a rajah's ransom for white jamdani. It takes a weaver a year and a half to produce six yards of the latter.

Mrs. Jayakar also suggests that we copy the Indian method of air conditioning. She said, "We use well-dampened large woven grass mats to hang over our windows. This works nicely to cool off the air coming into the house and would be excellent to shade and cool your porch."

NO PREJUDICE

I was interested to learn there is no male prejudice in India to women in business. Indian women are steadily increasing in numbers in every professional field: medicine, law, government, science and industry. Mrs. Jayakar feels that it is easier for a woman to advance in a career in India, perhaps because there is more domestic help.

24 Freshmen • Make A's In Test At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — Twenty-four freshmen enrolling at Louisiana Tech this week made the "A" classification in the mathematics placement test, according to Dr. W. B. Temple, head of the mathematics department of the college.

The top-ranking students total almost 11 per cent of the 223 beginners participating in the examination, which is the highest percentage Tech has experienced, Dr. Temple said.

Those scoring in the "A" division are permitted to register for calculus and analytic geometry. Upon their successful completion of this course this summer, they will be given credit in college algebra and in trigonometry. They are as follows:

Billy Ray Adney, Ruston, who plans to major in chemical engineering; Robert S. Belton, Minden, engineering; Donald R. Clements, Plain Dealing, agricultural engineering; Judith Ann Denny, Ruston, mathematics and speech; James D. Dyson, Ruston, civil engineering; Thomas J. Folk, Ruston, civil engineering; Michael E. Foster, Farmerville, chemical engineering.

Phillip M. Harris, Jena, electrical engineering; Wayne Hendrix, Haynesville, engineering; Hugh F. Lenox, Sulphur, major not listed; Joseph A. Livingston, Destrehan, major not listed; Frank T. Mercer II, Glenmora, physics; John L. Morris, Farmerville, electrical engineering; James E. Nicholson, West Monroe, physics; Robert M. Rogers, Bogalusa, major not listed.

Lester K. Sisemore, Quitman, physics; David Alan Smith, Shreveport, major not listed; Edward Lyn Sones, Jonesboro, chemistry; Grey A. Turner, Ruston, chemical engineering; John W. Watson, Minden, engineering; James H. Wells, Leesville, engineering; Mamie Jo Wolfe, Junction City, general academic; Tommy G. Wells, Glenmora, mathematics; Robert D. Wyatt, Winnfield, engineering.

Five Sentenced To State Prison In Court Here

Five persons were sentenced to the state penitentiary at Angola Friday in Fourth District Court by Judge Hillyer S. Parker. Judge Parker also imposed a suspended sentence and remanded two others to the parish jail to await a pre-sentence investigation.

Sentenced to Angola were: Theodore May Jr., 27, five years each on two counts of simple burglary, the terms to run concurrently.

George Williams, 44, was sentenced to five years of charges of forgery.

A five year sentence was imposed on Leon Clinton Wright, 41, on a manslaughter count.

Roy William Hinkle, 38, and Mary Hinkle, both of Athens, Ala., were sentenced to three years each for simple burglary of a movable.

Herbert Wilson, 41, Monroe, was given a one-year term for issuing a worthless check. The sentence was then suspended and Wilson was placed on probation for three years.

Remanded for later sentencing were:

Clarence Joseph Kring, 25, Alvis Hotel, Monroe, two counts of forgery and one of simple escape. He was remanded until June 26.

Doris Rouse Jones was remanded until July 1 on three counts of forgery.

John William Pierce, Waverly, Tenn., was remanded until Sept. 11, on charges of simple burglary of a movable. He was jointly charged with the Hinkle couple.

Judge Parker also presided over a misdemeanor session of court and fined six persons $300 and costs each for driving while intoxicated. They were Thomas P. Haynes, 1605 S. 9th St., Monroe; Nick Tom Slavent, Blazier Lane, West Monroe; Claude B. Sturdivant, 1405 S. 4th St., Monroe; Harvey Boutwell, Rt. 1, Ferriday; Larry D. Arnold, Winnfield; and H. J. Beasley, 209 S. 1st St., West Monroe.

Other cases handled were for minor violations.

Drivers Fined In West Monroe Court Session

Judge John F. McCormick presided over a brief session of West Monroe Municipal Court Friday and fined one person $300 on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Fined was Alvin L. Sears, 42, of 210 S. 8th St., Monroe. Fined for reckless driving were Ollie T. Baggett, 21, 406 Browning St., West Monroe, $25; James E. Cooper, 20, Kingston Apts., Monroe, $10; Agnes W. Newton, 29, 1604 Glenmar Ave., Monroe, $25. Charges against Pat Tubbs, 32, 1527 Woodland St., West Monroe, were nolle prossed.

Fined for speeding were Edwards Williams, 39, Rt. 2, Box 504, West Monroe, $20; Reval R. Hammett, 21, 2522 N. 8th St., West Monroe, $15; George L. Johnson, 27, 113 Patton Dr., West Monroe, $10, and Irvin E. Williams, 29, Rt. 1, West Monroe, $15.

Other cases handled were for minor counts.

House Action On 'Wholesale' Ad Usage Slated

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A bill sponsored by Sen. Edwin W. Edwards of Crowley regulating the use of the word wholesale in advertising is expected to get House action in the state legislature next week.

The bill would prohibit state merchants from advertising articles at wholesale price unless the prices are bonafide wholesale.

Edwards told fellow senators the bill does not prohibit discount selling and would not affect the consumer. It merely prohibits the use of the word wholesale in advertising unless the merchandise is marked at a true wholesale price, he said.

The senator said it had the backing of the Louisiana Better Business Bureaus.

Crossett Mill Being Converted

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Georgia-Pacific Corp. is converting its bleached foodboard mill here to Fourdrinier-type production in order to offer a complete line of bleached foodboard grades.

"The changing demands of our customers and the more critical specifications required in today's modern, highspeed converting operations made it essential for us to supply our customers with Fourdrinier grades," A. G. Naudain, vice president of kraft paper and board sales, said in announcing the changeover.

Georgia-Pacific recently announced a $10 million expansion program here involving construction of five new plants.

Norris Seeks School Board Ward 5 Post

William Norris III, West Monroe attorney and lifelong resident of Ouachita Parish, Friday formally announced his candidacy for the Ward 5 post on the Ouachita Parish School Board in the July 25 Democratic primary.

A graduate of the parish school system, Norris received his B. A. Degree in Education from Northeast Louisiana State College in 1959 and his law degree from Tulane University School of Law in 1962.

He is married to the former Martha Louise Lester of Monroe and the father of three children. They reside at 104 Olive Drive.

Norris is a member of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe and active in various civic organizations in the parish.

STATEMENT

Norris' statement read: "I have entered the race for Ward 5 School Board member because I feel that I am qualified to serve the citizens of Ward 5 and Ouachita Parish in this capacity and because I want to do my part toward seeing that our young people are provided with the best education program possible.

"If I am elected to serve in this important position, I pledge to the people of Ward 5 and the entire parish, that I will be a fair, conscientious and impartial school board member. My every decision as a board member will be weighed in the light of what is best for the total educational program. I cannot help but believe that if each board member will guide his decisions and actions according to what is best for the Ouachita Parish School System and for the cause of education, then harmony and progress will prevail in our system.

"I am acutely aware that there are, at present, many complex and difficult problems that face our school board and our entire system and there are other serious problems that are definitely on the way. If elected, I pledge to study and investigate these problems and to seek and propose workable solutions based on concrete facts and figures interpreted in the light of what is best for the education program.

"As a lawyer, I am convinced that the concept of 'separate but equal facilities' is in keeping with the intention of the drafters of our nation's Constitution.

"If you choose to elect me, I will be an interested, hard working school board member eager to work and co-operate with our teachers, school administrators, parents, students and other board members in an effort to provide an educational program of which we all can be proud.

"Selecting a member to serve on the Ouachita Parish School Board from Ward 5 is an important decision for the voters of Ward 5. I ask that the people of Ward 5 study carefully the qualifications and characters of each candidate. Our children deserve the best. Your vote and support for my candidacy will be deeply appreciated."

Madison Parish School Board Approves Bids

TALLULAH (Special) — The Madison Parish school board accepted bids from Everett Oil Co. for gas and oil for the coming school year and from Maxwell Hardward and Lumber Co. of Delhi to build a class room at its June meeting here.

The board also decided to continue driver education classes after school for students who cannot attend during regular class hours.

The parish superintendent of schools was authorized to build all-weather physical education areas at Tallulah and McCall High Schools and to accept a proposal from Vico Concrete Co. for material to be used.

The board voted to ask the Department of Public Works to draw up plans and specifications for concreting a portion of the bus driveway at Tallulah High and to advertise for bids. It also voted to advertise for bids for liability insurance on all vehicles operated by the board.

Verdie Smock, 34, of 2709 Prospect St., was fined $75 for attempting to commit a battery.

Jesse Gibson, 18, of 3112 Pearl St., was fined $100 for carrying a dangerous weapon.

Theft charges against Willie Louis were nolle prossed upon payment of court costs.

Eleven minor traffic counts were also handled by Judge Harper.

Chinchilla Pelt Show Is Today

About 75 persons from Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana are expected to attend the North Texas Branch of the Chinchilla Pelt Show today at the Virginia Hotel.

Host for the show is the Tri-State Chinchilla Club and Miss Dorothy Kinnison will be in charge. The show's judge will be Austin Holloway of New York, president of the Farmers Chinchilla Co-op Association.

A 2 p.m. instructional program on pelting and marketing is scheduled and the show will wind up with a 7 p.m. banquet with Holloway scheduled as guest speaker.

Yerger Renamed Jury President

TALLULAH (Special) — Andrew L. Yerger was re-elected president of the Madison Parish police jury at a meeting here Thursday.

Others elected were R. B. Watts, vice president and C. A. Sparling, secretary-treasurer.

The jury named the Madison Parish Journal as the official journal of the jury and the Tallulah State Bank and Southern National Bank as fiscal agents.

Jim Folk was named finance committee chairman.

LAST STALINIST BOSS

Romania Painful To Soviet Rulers

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

If Red China is a thorn in Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's side, Communist Romania is a painful pebble in his shoe.

The polite Bucharest-Moscow argument symbolizes a gathering threat that notions of national and independent communism to get out of hand in Khrushchev's domain.

Khrushchev's antagonist in Romania is neither pro-Chinese nor pro-Moscow. He is pro-Romania. In the Soviet bloc, he is the last of the Stalinist party bosses, the only one to survive the Khrushchev wave of de-Stalinization.

Romanian party chief Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej long has been noted as ruthless but flexible. He has not hesitated to turn westward for help in his ambitious program to industrialize Romania.

Evidently, the Kremlin regards Gheorghiu-Dej as setting an example which can spread an infection through the whole

NEWS ANALYSIS

Eastern European bloc. He has shown others that even a small Communist country can live in the shadow of the Soviet Union these days and successfully defy Khrushchev.

While Gheorghiu-Dej, now 62, in his long and violent career faithfully toed the Stalin line, he differed from other satellite Communist leaders in one important respect: He was the only one of them who had not been trained in Moscow. He was a home-grown product.

Probably, Gheorghiu-Dej wastes no love on either the Russians or the Chinese. Peking once vilified him as a budding Titoist. He can remember the Soviet occupation of Romania, the Soviet practice of milking his country for Moscow's benefit. The Russians annexed the rich Romanian province of Moldavia, interfered with Romanian industrialization and dismantled much of Romania's industrial plant after World War II for shipment to the U.S.S.R.

Judge Decries Actress Must Do Mad Scene

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge decreed Friday that unless Bette Davis agrees to do a 90-second mad scene for Paramount Pictures, she can't work elsewhere.

Superior Court Judge Macklin Fleming issued an injunction despite the plea of 20th Century-Fox that such an order would cost it a $500,000 loss. Miss Davis is filming a picture for Fox.

Judge Fleming, who had indicated earlier that he planned to hold off on the injunction, made it effective next Tuesday at 5 p.m. The delay was to give the star's attorney time to seek a writ from the District Court of Appeal — should he and Miss Davis choose to do so.

Also, said Bucharest, it was an odd time to start a new fuss when the Communist world already was seriously in trouble over the Peking-Moscow squabble.

It is unlikely Romania's party would side with Red China in a Communist showdown. But Gheorghiu-Dej has not cut his communications with China. He also retains diplomatic ties with little Albania, Peking's sounding board in Europe for attacks on Khrushchev.

Khrushchev assigned Romania the task of developing her agriculture and petroleum, at the expense of Romanian plans for industrial development. Gheorghiu-Dej didn't buy it. Khrushchev is annoyed. Moscow radio recently deplored Romania's trade negotiations with the United States, and got a sharp retort from Bucharest. The Romanians recalled that Moscow itself developed trade relations with the West, and so did Poland and Czechoslovakia.
